Dear Prospective Partner,

Harlem has always been more than a place. It is an idea, a movement and a source of extraordinary artistic influence. From the Harlem Renaissance to the generations of composers, musicians, writers and performers who followed, this community has helped shape the sound and spirit of America.

The Harlem Boys Choir carries that story forward through the voices of young artists. Our 2026–2027 season is designed to celebrate African American composers, honor the rich cultural history of Harlem, and create meaningful opportunities for young people to develop their talent through music, mentorship and performance.

We invite corporations, foundations, public officials, cultural institutions and community organizations to help cultivate this work. Your investment is fertile ground: it helps young artists find their voices, gives audiences a deeper connection to our shared cultural inheritance, and makes room for the next chapter of Harlem's creative legacy.

Our annual season brings together 30 performances, a home-stage experience at Town School Theatre, and a year-long platform for partners to connect with audiences through live performance, venue screens, pre-show and post-show broadcasts, digital storytelling and community engagement.

We are seeking partners who understand that supporting the arts is also an investment in education, opportunity, cultural memory and the future. Whether your organization joins as a presenting sponsor, a foundation funder, a civic partner or a community champion, there is a meaningful place for you in this season.

Thank you for considering an investment in the young artists and cultural future of Harlem. I would welcome the opportunity to share our plans and discuss how we can build this season together.

With appreciation,

Jarvus Ricardo Hester
